President's Message

Our first tournament is behind us and look forward to the rest of the year's events. Terrible forecasts gave way to a nice day, other than the wind and a wet weigh in. The food was excellent and there was a fine showing by the JR anglers and I hope this continues. I encourage everyone to take a child every chance they get! We have a full schedule for the April meeting and look forward to seeing everyone. We will try to start having name tags at the weigh-in's to assist in meeting new people. Special thanks to all members that assisted with prizes for the March meeting and donations are always welcome.

March meeting recap

A healthy crowd enjoyed the March 2009 ACFA meeting. Club members Pete Burns and Marc Kruse kicked things off with the Mini-Seminar at 6 p.m. Burns and Kruse have many, many, decades of combined experience on the water and had many useful tips to share. Bill Midgette handled the "Quick Hits" and showed the crowd many homemade gadgets he has developed to help anglers concentrate on fishing while in their boats on the water instead of concentrating on such distractions as "where the $#%^ did I put my fishing pliers?" Robbie Loper from Middle Bay Marine was the featured speaker and, as always, had a lot of useful information regarding keeping your outboard and other mechanical systems working in peak condition.

Frank Mitternight displays the winning 5.9 lb trout for the 2009 March Madness Tournament. When pressed for details, he reluctantly revealed he caught the big trout at Municipal Park on a hotdog weenie.

March Madness tournament results

In spite of a gloomy forecast, the rain held off for most of the days leaving anglers with just a “little breeze” to contend with while trying to win a coveted ACFA plaque and tournament points. At least 46 anglers braved the conditions to fish. All of those club members, as well as many more who didn’t have fish to weigh, didn’t let a little rain stop them from enjoying the camaraderie, fish stories, and great food on the covered porch at the weigh-in site. We encourage all club members, even if they don’t have fish to weigh, or even if they didn’t have a chance to wet a line that day, to come out to tournament weigh-ins to enjoy the fellowship this club has to offer.

April tournament “Spring Breakout”-April 4th

April 4th is the date for the next ACFA Tournament -“Spring Breakout” Speckled Trout, Flounder, Sheepshead, and Ground Mullet are the categories. Plaques for 1st-3rd will also be given for Pompano, but Pompano do not count toward tournament point standings. The weigh-in is at the usual spot at American Legion Post 250 on D.I.P (Ala. Hwy 193) just north of Fowl River. If you are headed south its just past the Family Dollar, on the right side of the road, which is just past the Greer’s Food Tiger, and the blinking yellow light at the intersection with Fowl River Road. The USCG Auxiliary will be present at the weigh-in to perform courtesy Vessel Safety Checks of your boat. The inspection is voluntary, and will reveal any Coast Guard safety regulations you may be inadvertently violating. Having your vessel checked not only makes sure you and your loved ones are safe on the water, it may also allow you to avoid any costly citations later should you get inspected outside the “courtesy” context. Coast Guard Auxiliary Members Bill Lauber and Ken MacRae will also be at the April 2nd meeting to answer any questions you may have regarding Coast Guard requirements, or other safety related questions.

Rules Clarification

Participation points will only be given to species that are a tournament category for the tournament in which the fish is being weighed. For example, in the April tournament, only Speckled Trout, Flounder, Sheepshead, and Ground Mullet will receive participation points. Fish of any Bigfish category may be weighed-in at that tournament to receive Bigfish credit, but fish that are not in a tournament category will not receive a Participation Point.

ACFA’ers in other tournaments

On March 21st, the third installment of the GCAA redfish tournament series was held in Hopedale, LA. Two teams with ACFA members managed to finish in the money. Club member Erik Nelson, and partner Mark Wright finished in 2nd place with 14.3 lbs. Club member Paul Smith, with partner Mike Daves finished 3rd with 14.03 lbs. Three tournaments into the seven tournament series, seven of the top 10 teams in the point standings consist at least partly of current or former ACFA members. That is not too shabby, especially when considering these anglers have been fishing two states away from home against mostly local competition.

As the summer tournament season gets started, be sure to let the Newsletter Editor know of any club members that do well in any of the local or regional tournaments.

Coast Watch Seminars

Ever seen a gillnet you thought might be in violation of the law, but weren't sure; or been disgusted by the sight of a recreational angler keeping undersized trout, but didn't know what to do about it? The CCA, in partnership with the Alabama Marine Resources Division, will be sponsoring a series of "Coast Watch" Seminars this Spring and Summer. "Coast Watch" is a community watch program of sorts on the water. The seminar teaches attendees how to spot and report fishing regulations violations. The program is useful to the Marine Resources Division because it multiplies the number of eyes on the water, and helps eliminate enforcement officers wasting valuable time with invalid reports of violations. When a call is received from a person who has attended a Coast Watch seminar, Marine Resources knows they can place far more credence in that report. Such reports may result in officers catching violators, or at the least, allow them to plan their patrol patterns to more effectively enforce fishery regulations. The seminars only take a few hours, and speaking from personal experience, are a worthwhile investment of your time. I have taken a fishing trip that didn't result in any fish caught by me, but the AMRD did catch an illegal, unattended gillnet that day thanks to a call made by me, and I can tell you that was one of the most rewarding fishing trips I went on that year. The seminar is free and open to the public. The schedule is as follows:

April 9th

Location: Guy Harvey's Island Grill-Sportsman's Lounge, The Wharf, Orange Beach, AL

Time: 6:30-800

May 14th

Location: The Original Oyster House on the Causeway-Delta Room

Time: 6:30-800

September 17th

Bass Pro Shops, Upper Level Meeting Room, Spanish Fort, AL

Time: 6:30-800

A 4th Coast Watch Seminar to occur in Mobile is being planned.

Jemison's to close forever?

The Mobile County Commission is planning on canceling Jemison's Bait Shop's lease, and building a park at that location. A local landmark, important resource for the fishing community, and source of county sales tax dollars will be lost forever. One might question the value of a park on a strip of land just wide enough to hold a baitshop and a small parking lot, when compared with the benefit Jemison's has provided to the local angling community for years, particularly when there is apparently another public park within a few hundred yards of Jemison's that rarely, if ever, gets used. At one time or another, probably just about every local fisherman has stopped at Jemison's to obtain ice, bait, and other provisions on the way to Dauphin Island. Local, homegrown bait shops provide a valuable service, and are a dying breed. It would be a shame to lose one that has served the fishing community for decades for what may turn out to be a waste of tax dollars. Feel free to share your thoughts about it to the Mobile County Commissioners, particularly if you live in (and are a voter in) Commissioner Mike Dean's District, where Jemison's is located. ### Redfish Club Challenge*

In 2007, the Down Da Bayou Redfish Club, a Louisiana redfishing club, and the ACFA participated in a friendly club challenge to see which club could prevail in the 2 slot redfish catch and release tournament format. The tournament was held in Hopedale, LA, and ACFA pulled off the upset on the home state waters of DDBRC. A rematch was demanded, and a second club challenge occurred in 2008 in Hopedale. DDBRC was out for blood, and pulled off a slim victory, with roughly twice as many DDBRC boats fishing as the ACFA. This year the rubber match has been set for May 16th, again in Hopedale. If you would like to participate, or think you might, contact club member Bernie White ("Bernie" on the ACFA webforum), or any of the other redfish tournament regulars in the club, for more details.

*The club challenge is not an official ACFA tournament.

B-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a-a!!!! Its Sheephead season!

When the Dogwoods are blooming, the Sheephead are biting, or at least according to local fishing lore. Every Spring, particularly in April and March, Sheephead school up in large numbers on Bay, and near coastal gas rigs, and any other structure such as bridge pilings, reefs, and rockpiles for their annual spawn. With the smell of love in the air- erh-water, the normally crafty bait stealers get stupid, and much easier to catch. A live shrimp on a sturdy 1/0 or 2/0 live bait hook, on a Carolina rig, presented vertically near such structure is almost a sure bet. Its so simple-a caveman could do it! Try varying your depth until you find where the fish are holding. Also try using a fluorocarbon leader. If you are wondering whether it makes a difference and is worth the extra cost-YES. Also, if you are lucky enough to be able to obtain fiddler crabs, or hermit crabs (extracted from the shell), be sure to keep a firm grip on your rod.

Sheephead aren't marketed in some places as "bay snapper" for nothing. Their meat is white, flaky, and delicious; it just isn't easy to get to. Sheephead are built like tanks with thick skin and scales, and tough rib bones. Try filleting around the rib bones, instead of through them, and it is worth the effort. The spawning Sheephead tend to be of healthy size, and put up a very respectable fight. Sheephead fishing this time of year is a great way to spend the day with kids, or less experienced anglers.

Sheephead are members of the porgy family. It is a wonder that they are harder to catch at other times of the year because studies have shown them to be garbage guts that eat just about everything. It is well known that they have an affinity for crabs, and other crustaceans, but studies of Sheephead have revealed that Sheephead also eat barnacles, clams, mussels, worms, sponges, and finfish. In fact, larger Sheephead have been shown to eat quite a bit of finfish. At least one club member can attest to this by the fact that he caught a double digit Sheephead on a Mirrolure intended for trout. Perhaps the most surprising fact about the Sheephead menu is that they also eat a large amount of algae and plants. A Louisiana study showed that Lake Ponchartrain Sheephead rely on plants for more that 50% of their diet. Sheephead spawn after they reach 2 years of age, and a size of 1 ½ to 1 ¾ pounds. The current world record was caught in 1982 in Louisiana and weighed 21 lbs 4 ounces. Sheephead can live for over a decade.

There are no size and creel limits on Sheephead in Alabama waters, and there is an unregulated commercial fishery as well. When you are taking advantage of the Spring Sheephead bounty, please remember that the best conservation practice is to take what you can eat for a few meals, and perhaps share with some friends, and let the rest go. Sheephead are particularly vulnerable to over exploitation when they are bunched up and stupid, and after cleaning a handful, you will likely wish you would have let the rest go instead of having to clean that many anyway.

Club member Pete Burns puts the heat on a Sheephead at a near shore gas rig on a gorgeous April Saturday.

Corrections

- *The February 2009 newsletter incorrectly referred to the October ACFA Tournament as the “Causeway Classic.” The October tournament was renamed the “Fall Out” Tournament when a November tournament was added to the ACFA tournament slate. The November tournament is now the “Mutt Burke Causeway Classic.”
